The Beginning of Secession.

[illegible] in a recent speech [illegible] Maryland respecting [illegible] Congress [illegible] the following [illegible]

[illegible] When [illegible] Governor Thomas [illegible] the men [illegible] Slaveholding States were [illegible] his strange [illegible] the South [illegible] sitting in the room of the Committee of Claims? He replied that he had [illegible] He went there [illegible] found the following resolution under consideration, and Hon. [illegible] W. Pickens urging it upon the approval of the meeting:

Resolved, That no member of Congress representing a Southern constituency shall again take his seat until a resolution is passed satisfactory to the South on the subject of slavery."

Governor Thomas continues:

"I said to Mr. Pickens, What next do you propose we shall do? Are we to tell the people that Republicanism is a failure? If you [illegible] that I am not. I [illegible] here to sustain and uphold American institutions—to defend the rights of the North as well as the South—to secure harmony and good fellowship between all sections of our common country." They durst not answer these questions. The Southern temper had not then been gotten up. As my questions were not answered I moved an adjournment of the caucus sine die. Mr. [illegible] of Virginia seconded my motion, and the company was broken up. We returned to the House, and Mr. Ingersoll of Pennsylvania [illegible] then as now, introduced a resolution which temporarily calmed the excitement.

However busy Mr. Pickens may have been in the caucus after it met, the most active man in getting it up and pressing the Southern members to go into it was R. B. Rhett, also a member from South Carolina. The occasion [illegible] alleged cause, of this withdrawal from the House to secret deliberation, was an anti-slavery speech of Mr. Slade, of Vermont, which Mr. Rhett violently denounced, and proposed to the Southern members to leave the House and go into conclave in one of the Committee rooms, which they generally did if not all of them. We are able to state, however, what may not have been known to Gov. Thomas, that at least three besides himself of those who did attend it, went there with a purpose very different from an intention to consent to any treasonable measure.

These three men were Henry A. Wise, Barbour [illegible] and Wm. Cost Johnson. Neither of them opened his lips in the caucus; they went to observe, and we can assure Gov. Thomas that if Mr. Pickens or Mr. Calhoun (whom he names) or any one else had presented a distinct proposition looking to disunion or secession, he would have witnessed a scene not soon to have been forgotten. The three whom we have mentioned were as brave as they were determined. Fortunately, perhaps, the man whom they went particularly to watch, remained silent and passive.

And now (as the American remarks) let those who are called upon to sympathize with South Carolina at the present juncture, read the strong confirmation of Gov. Thomas' experience put forward by Mr. Rhett, who said in the late South Carolina Convention:

"The secession of South Carolina is not the event of a day. It is not any thing produced by Mr. Lincoln's election, or by the non-execution of the fugitive slave law. It has been a matter which has been gathering head for thirty years!"

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 18, 186[illegible]

How Much shall we Concede?

The call for a Union Convention has met with quite general satisfaction among republicans, so far as can be at present learned. The inquiry is however made, and it is pertinent enough, how much shall we concede in this union? This inquiry every man must answer for himself and act accordingly, but republicans are nearly unanimous in declaring that whatever may be the designs of any politicians of any party or faction, in going into a Union Convention, it will be insisted that the letter and spirit of the call shall be observed, and that the men nominated for office shall be such as have been known from the very first to be sympathizers with the Government and opposed to the great rebellion in all its phases, and in all its pretences [illegible] who have shown such an independence of party in former times as renders their patriotism and their trustworthiness in any emergency undoubted. There is no doubt but that now the call has been made, and it is manifest that many [illegible] heretofore known as democrats of the straitest sect are entering heartily into the movement, many will be found brimful of warlike spirit and loud in their professions of loyalty to the government, as it has—who have all along been characterizing the efforts of the Administration to put down the rebellion as "Abe Lincoln's War," and actually exhibiting more satisfaction with reverses of the Federal armies than with any Federal victories whatsoever. All this class of men—these eleventh hour laborers—these [illegible] of doubtful principles and of easy political virtue, republicans will insist shall be left out of the list of candidates for office.

The object sought by this Union Convention is harmony and concentration of the Union elements of the State and united exertions to save Oregon from the horrors of secession and civil war, and, to accomplish this, republicans will concede a fair share of the offices which, if it were not in their power to take wholly to themselves, [illegible] in their power to [illegible] to whom they shall be given—provided the men selected as candidates shall possess the qualifications as indicated above. This would be fair. Without it there can be no such thing as waiving party [illegible] and [illegible]

By going into a Union Convention on the basis proposed, provided it be constituted and conducted in good faith and according to the spirit of the call, it is difficult to perceive wherein a republican waives his stand on any of the great principles of the party, or admits the false and slanderous charges which the disunion (falsely so called democratic) party and press have persistently made and repeated concerning the designs and the principles of the republican party. [illegible] republicans have re[illegible] upon the fabricators—the great principles of the republican party have [illegible] ted by the nation, the party and its representatives have exhibited a magnanimity and practical patriotism which the [illegible] libels of falsehood [illegible] and the Southern [illegible] new issue not found or hinted at [illegible] in any of the platforms of any of the parties heretofore—that is whether or not we have a government, or whether the American people are to have one that is free and subject to the will of the majority, and not that of the minority? This issue—his platform [illegible] as it does the suppression of the rebellion [illegible] upon which all republicans and a large number of all other parties are fully agreed, and in so agreeing, are not [illegible] up any [illegible] of their former [illegible] forced. All former questions between parties have been concerning what course the ship of State shall sail. The rebellion has swallowed up these questions, and forced upon the people the direct issue as to whether the ship shall float or sink. The Administration find no way to settle this question but by war, for the rebels have begun the fight and are determined to persist in it till they are conquered or the government is destroyed. All men of any party who view this matter as the Administration or Government [illegible] and should [illegible] with it and [illegible] should act with and [illegible] of any other party who entertain [illegible] opinions on this subject.

In answer, then, to our question, How much shall we concede? we [illegible] say we will concede our prejudices and partizan [illegible] es—we will concede [illegible] share of the offices [illegible] mentioned [illegible] but we will not renounce our principles—our views of policy and government [illegible] in times of peace. We will [illegible] what necessity and the uncontrollable [illegible] of events demand of us as patriots and [illegible] and we ask all Union men of other parties to do no less.

Gold Dust Brought to Portland.—The amount of gold dust brought to Portland during the last summer and fall and up to the 1st January is estimated as equal to $3,000,000. Of this amount, Wells, Fargo & Co. alone shipped $1,108,77[illegible]. The Portland Assay Office of Mr. Agnell has assayed since May, $9[illegible]. These sums make $4,297,010.32. Added to this sum the amounts now in the hands of merchants, traders and miners, it will reach the sum of $[illegible],000,000. This is a very large sum considering the few persons who were prepared and able to work their claims to advantage both summer and fall. These estimates are from the Times, and we believe they are reasonably correct. We shall not be surprised if in two months after mining is commenced in the spring, half a million in gold dust shall reach Portland each week.

Brigadier General Breckinridge—Douglas' Prediction.—On his memorable journey home from Washington, shortly before his death, Senator Douglas remarked to a distinguished Kentuckian whom he chanced to meet at Indianapolis, "I know your man Breckinridge better than you do yourselves. Mark my words, sir, within a year from this time John C. Breckinridge will be a General in the rebel army." The result shows how thoroughly Mr. Douglas did know his former friend. The year has but half passed since the prediction was made, and to-day Mr. Breckinridge holds a commission as Brigadier General in the rebel army under Buckner at Bowling Green.

An Eastern exchange says that a [illegible] that is to be distributed to the soldiers of the present campaign will soon be ready for distribution. One will be given to each of the soldiers, whether in the regular service or volunteers, either for the war or the three months. The one adopted by Secretary Seward is now being prepared in Albany. It is [illegible] twenty inches by thirty [illegible] a handsome lithograph. An eagle with outstretched wings, over which is, in a circular line, the sentence [illegible] Liberty and Union [illegible] In the centre of the circle is the Goddess of Liberty and the Goddess of Justice [illegible] is seated upon [illegible] with the [illegible] the Goddess of Liberty waving an American flag; by the side of the Goddess of Justice [illegible] her left hand is a bundle of [illegible] in the centre of which is [illegible] one side of the [illegible] are the [illegible] of all the States. PORTLAND ACADEMY.—[illegible] every two weeks [illegible] the Portland Academy for the pupils to hold exercises in reading, composition and [illegible] and this institution [illegible] yesterday afternoon and spent an hour or two very pleasantly. The institution is under the [illegible] of Prof. H[illegible] as principal, and Miss J[illegible] and Miss Portland as assistants. [illegible] permitted to do justice [illegible] scholastic attainments of the pupils [illegible] we may say that we have never seen a better conducted school, better or less—the [illegible] anywhere. It is right that we should encourage scholars by noticing their qualifications, and for that reason we especially commend Misses Elvina Holman and Leonora Blossom for the ability shown by their writing and reading essays; also Masters Dufur, Cardwell, Aiken and McNamee for their recitations, and Mr. Cornell for a remarkably well written essay which was read by him. The "Academic Journal," edited by the young men, was read, followed by the reading of the "Wreath," edited by the young ladies. The articles in both journals evinced considerable ability. At the conclusion of the exercises, Mr. Hall introduced Mr. Gould, correspondent of the Alta Californian, who made a few appropriate and pertinent remarks to the scholars.

AN UPSET.—It is not to be supposed that every sleigh with parties of pleasure passing rapidly over the roads where there are occasionally unseen stumps and holes, will escape an upset. Whether it be so or not, there are occasionally sudden spillings out of the contents of the sleigh in the snow. We are told that there was a case of this kind last night. While going ahead at a pleasant rate, the girls and boys comprising the party in great glee, the sleigh struck a stump and the party were tumbled into the snow, where they lay half a second heads and points. The sleigh was stopped, the [illegible] all promising more [illegible] and off they went, the boys singing, "Who'd be king but Charlie."

DECIDEDLY COOL.—One of our nice young men, wishing to put on a few extra touches in the way of skating yesterday, walked aboard the steamer [illegible] and buckled his skates on in the most approved style; that being accomplished he proceeded to jump from the side of the boat down on to the frozen "bosom" of the Willamette. He struck very gracefully, on the snow ice—[illegible] down, the ice was not strong enough to stop him, but his arms were, which he threw out just as his head was disappearing beneath the surface, and he escaped with nothing but a cold bath. Moral: Look well before you leap.

THE WILLAMETTE.—The river at this point is now frozen over from shore to shore. We noticed quite a number of men and boys yesterday, walking over it on the ice, some with skates and others with long poles in their hands. Several farmers brought produce over on sleighs; and one man pulled over about four hundred pounds of beef on a sled. Boys should be careful while skating and not go too near the air holes, or get on thin ice, for should one of them go through it would be a difficult matter to rescue him.

THE DEBATE AT THE COURT HOUSE.—About two hundred persons were present last night and seemed to be deeply interested in the discussion between the Revs. [illegible] and [illegible] on the question "Is the doctrine of a future endless punishment a reasonable and scriptural doctrine?" We have been requested to ask the committee to procure a larger and more comfortable room.

SKATING PARTY.—We understand that a number of ladies and gentlemen will form a party, to-day, and go on to the ice for the purpose of skating, sleighing, &c. Very pleasant and healthy amusement.

PLAYED OUT.—The services of the ferry boat, usually so requisite for the accommodation of passengers, are now dispensed with by the bridge free. Is this an infringement of the ferry charter?

WHO WILL GO.—A young man employed in this office proposes to go to Oregon City to-day on skates. He desires company. Who will go with him?

Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic Affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to Brown's Bronchial Troches, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

Letter Writing in the Army. — There never was an army like this for correspondence. Go through the camp at any time, any hour of the day, and you will see hundreds of soldiers—when off duty—writing letters. It is a picturesque sight. Some lie at full length on the ground beneath the shade of the trees, with [illegible] table with pen and ink—[illegible]—writing the news to their friends. Some stand up against the [illegible] knees [illegible] with [illegible] letters received [illegible] the Washington Post Office [illegible] an equal number [illegible] making an aggregate of [illegible] thirty thousand [illegible] per day [illegible] days soon.—[illegible]

A Triple Birth.—[illegible] of [illegible] wrote to the President that his wife had presented him with three sons at a birth, and asked him to name them. The letter was referred to the Secretary of War, who named them respectively Abraham Lincoln, Gideon Welles and Simon Cameron, and [illegible] the happy father of the fact [illegible], expressed the hope that the boys may live to be an honor to their parents and their country. A few days since the father replied to the letter, stating that he had named the children as suggested, and concluding by remarks complimentary to the President and his Administration and expressing the belief that they will prove competent in the present political struggle.

Lieutenant M. F. Maury has thrown away a chance to save himself. It is reported in the southern papers that he has declined an invitation to enter the Russian Navy, tendered to him in a letter from the Grand Duke Constantine, on the plea that he must wait until Southern independence is established. Mr. Maury will be compelled to wait a long time and loses a chance of saving his neck besides.

Forney, in a letter from Washington to his paper, says: "But if the battle for liberty on these shores is to be conducted against the traitors of the South and the monarchs of Europe, let it come."

The Irish papers say that several of the officers and men of the Pope's late Irish Brigade are preparing to emigrate to the United States to enlist in the Irish Brigade now forming.

Rev. Peter Cartwright, in a recent camp sermon to Colonel Updegraff's regiment, declares that he will "fight the rebels to the death, if for no other reason than for breaking up the Democratic party."

Just the Idea.—A boy in a Sunday school was once asked by his teacher what economy meant. He promptly answered:

"Paring potatoes thin."

The answer was received with a smile, but the definition was right as far as it went. If the lad had got a just idea of the matter, his rule only wanted carrying out, and applying to things generally, to be perfect.

A lazy fellow begged alms, saying that he could not find bread for his family.

"Nor I," replied an industrious mechanic, "I am obliged to work for it."

Only one Nation is known to be friendly to the Southern Confederacy, and that Nation is damnation!

Pitt was once canvassing for himself, when he came to a blacksmith's shop. "Sir," said he to the blacksmith, "will you favor me with your vote?" "Mr. Pitt," said the son of Vulcan, "I admire your head, but d—n your heart." "Mr. Blacksmith," returned Pitt, "I admire your candor, but d—n your manners."

Curious answers often come out in examination for the Civil Service. The word "inheritance" occurring in a page of reading, the examiner interrogated the youngster:

"What is inheritance?"

"Patrimony."

"What is patrimony?"

"Something left by a father."

"What would you call it if left by your mother?"

"Matrimony."

"There is a divinity that shapes our ends," as the dough nuts remarked, when the girl was making them.

"Bob, how is your sweet heart getting along?"

"Pretty well, I guess, she says I need n't call any more."

In this world of disguise, we sometimes walk among angels, and know them not till some chance word or sign throws open the whole spiritual free masonry of our souls.

Love is the shadow of the morning which declines as day advances; friendship is the shadow of the evening, which deepens as the sun descends.

A journal asks what is the difference between a good soldier and a fashionable young lady, and replies, "One faces the powder, and the other powders the face."

"Annie, give I penny?" "What do you want a penny for, Gede?" "Buy candy." "Candy make Gede sick." "No, Annie." Gede got the penny, and the candy, and on his return, Annie said, "Gede, give Annie candy?" "No, Annie, candy make Annie sick, most make I sick, Annie!"

D., late in the Hungarian Revolutionary War, Chief Physician [illegible] Chief Surgeon to the Military Hospital of Pesth, Hungary, late lecturer on Diseases of the Urinary Organs and Diseases of Women [illegible] Honorary Member of the Philadelphia College of Medicine. Particular attention paid to the treatment of diseases peculiar to Women and Children.

Of all the ills the first great cause
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases—Self Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, [illegible] diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, [illegible] Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, [illegible] Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance, [illegible] Diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs, such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision [illegible] Skin Diseases, Eruptions on the Face, [illegible] It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines are pleasant, without odor, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During twenty years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands who, in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted who may place themselves under my care, a speedy [illegible] Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption [illegible] and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, [illegible] for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices my patients can be restored to robust vigorous health.

[illegible] all diseases of children and females treated [illegible] by thousands of the most remarkable cures [illegible] part of the State, Oregon and Washington [illegible] by patients [illegible] stating their symptoms by letter.

All business of private nature strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Office, San Francisco.
